

Embers of hope

In vaulted halls of sacred order alone she stands with her Creator, petitioning the Lord of grace and martyrs of her childhood faith.
No small mite to shelter hope, savings in an envelope.
Grafted through the scrapes and knocks and dropped into the candle box.

