

Star

From diverse worlds where shadows creep and drawn from waters running deep, we do not fit a mould or stencilled norm, nor are we fashioned blithely to conform.
We are unique in brilliance, and colourful resilience, as varied as the melodies from lullabies and rhapsodies.
And from our captor's net we were released, that night we saw a star rise in the east.

